Lunchtime Lecture
Data ownership: A data protection perspective

5 May 2017

Lisbon Conference Room, Lower Ground Floor
Institute for European Studies, VUB
5 Pleinlaan, 1050, Brussel

The notion of data ownership is surfacing more and more frequently in discussions about data policies, in particular at European level. As different types of knowledge production, the economy, and even our societies as such are increasingly portrayed as being 'data-driven', the issue of who can decide what happens to data (and with data) has become critical.

This event will explore data ownership from the perspective of European personal data protection. It will consider questions such as: Are data subject rights a manifestation of any 'ownership' of personal data? How can such rights be reconciled with other concomitant types of 'ownerships', if any? Does the understanding of this notion vary in other legal frameworks? And what are the fundamental rights implications of these discussions?

12.00-12.30	Arrival and lunch
12:30-13:30	Lecture 'Data ownership: A data protection perspective', by Prof. Dr. Gloria González Fuster
13:30-14:00:	Open discussion.

The event is free to attend, but registration is required.
